CORRETT TALKS OF PRIZE RING

Says Professional Politician Is Greatest Knock to Boxing Game.

BY JAMES J. CORRETT.

Political jealousy and the interference of the professional politician have done more to cripple ring sport in America than all the knockouts and reform opposition combined.

In every big fight center, where the game flourishes any length of time, you will find the professional politician working his way in much after the manner of the worm that bores into the hardest wood.

Of course, friction crops out as in other lines, and the first thing you know one political fact is after the reformer, urging him to interfere with the sport.

For some time the fight game has been flourishing in New York. Bouts were being put on at the rate of several a week, and some of the contests, while only of six rounds duration, attracted national attention. The politician was allowed to look on at the battles free. He was given the best seat in the house. He was allowed to go a good deal farther than the man who paid his way at the door.

Afraid of Missing Something.

For a time the politician was contented to look on. Then he became nervous when he saw the popularity of the contests increasing. Surely he was missing a good thing.

Instead of going about the matter in the right way and starting a club of his own, or in conjunction with some one else, he tried to use his political pull to get control of the organization which had built up reputations for fairness and cleanliness.

The politician used a new method of reaching the goal of his ambition. He brought the power of the building department into play, and was about to succeed, when Commissioner Bingham issued an order stopping all bouts.

And one more city is closed to the game.

Fighting is one sport that cannot flourish in the hands of politicians. It has to be conducted on a fair basis.

Nelson to Rest Awhile.

There seems to be little chance of getting Nelson in the ring before next spring. I have it pretty straight from the Dane that he is not entertaining an idea of taking on any of the boys who are claiming he is afraid. Nelson knows, and so does the biggest part of the pugilistic following, that the Dane comes pretty close to being the 132 pound man in the world in a finish fight.

One day McFarland says he will not enter the ring with the Dane for a fight longer than twenty-five rounds. And only the other day I read where his manager said that if Mac couldn't whip the Battler in that length of time he was willing to pass up the job.

I do not think McFarland would have a chance to knock out Nelson in that length of time, but I believe the stockyards would get the decision on points.

In a long fight Nelson ought to win over McFarland if he is in condition. McFarland showed in his fight with Leach Cross that he knows something himself about the aggressive system of fighting, but while he might go along some distance with Nelson I believe the Battler would beat him down in the finish.

It doesn't hurt the game to have this bout go along receiving the free advertising it is getting. Some day Nelson has got to meet McFarland, or rather Mac has got to meet Nelson, for the Dane will dictate the terms, and then the benefit will be reaped.

How Ketchel Got Even.

A short time ago I was passing through Montana with my theatrical company, and I overlooked no chance to pick some reminiscences of the early fighting days of Stanley Ketchel. Right now Ketchel is in the limelight because of his third contest with Papke at Frisco on Thanksgiving day.

The most interesting story I heard about the great Michigan fighter was when he met and almost murdered Jerry McCarty at Great Falls, Mont. In 1906, McCarty was rated high in William A. Clark's state in those days. In fact, to mention Ketchel's name in the same breath with Jerry's was a breach in fighting dope.

Ketchel, however, had made friends while working on a bridge that was being built across the Missouri river at Great Falls. He had shown plenty of nerve every time he had been brought to a test, and he was not without backing even against McCarty.

There happened to be a performance of one of the popular priced shows in Great Falls one evening just before the contest scheduled between Jerry and Stanley, and the latter, as he has always done before and since he gained a national reputation, bought the best there was in the house in the shape of a seat. McCarty happened to be up in the gallery the same night, and when he spied Ketchel he was all rolled up.

He forgot what was going on back of the footlights and turned his attention to Ketchel, who would be his opponent in the ring in a couple of nights. After a lot of thinking McCarty finally hit upon a scheme. He would have a telegram come to the theatre for his opponent, and have some one on the stage ask for Stanley.

No sooner had the actor asked for Ketchel from the stage than a kid up in the gallery yelled: "Sending telegrams to himself already!"

Ketchel was all stirred up over the "dirty trick," as he called it, but quickly forgot it, and announced that he would get even with McCarty when he got him in the ring.

Stanley did get even, and the big crowd that packed Luther's opera house that night will remember for many a day the terrible beating Ketchel gave McCarty.

MAKING VERSATILE PLAYERS.

Couch Stagg of Chicago has only fifteen men that he regards as possessing necessary class to make the varsity, and he is coaching them so that in case of injuries they may be shifted from one position to another. For instance, if an end is hurt he may be replaced with a guard, while one of the subs will go to the vacant guard position. He demands that each of his ends shall be able to go behind the line, while all of his backs are also drilled as ends.

KETCHEL WILL TRAIN THIS TIME

Montana Boy Declares Papke Will Not Catch Him Off Guard This Time.

Stanley Ketchel is quoted as making the following logical remarks on his coming fight with Billy Papke: "While I'm in a talking humor, I would like to say a few words to my friends. I want them to know that I was never better at the beginning of a spell of training than I am right now. From the time I came into prominence as a fighter until I met a setback at Los Angeles, I did not give myself the slightest rest. I used to tell the sporting writers that nothing would suit me better than to fight once a week, and that was the way I felt about it. I have come to the conclusion that a fighter is only human, and if he doesn't enjoy a letup once in a while he will meet disaster. The long rest I have had in the mountains has filled me with energy, and if Papke gets me again I won't be in a position to plead that I was stale. There is another thing I must mention. I notice where several of the eastern writers, in discussing the chances of my next fight, have said that the beating I received at Papke's hands will probably affect my confidence. They say it is always that way with fighters. Well, all I can say is that I do not think I received much of a beating, and if I did, it has not influenced my faith in myself. Papke certainly gave me a heavy smash the first crack out of the box, but the blows he put in after that did not hurt. I was dazed in the opening round, and if Papke had been a solid puncher he surely would have finished me sooner than he did. I was a mark for his punches, but he could not put me down and out. To put the thing in a nutshell, I consider my defeat by Papke in Los Angeles as the most accident. He couldn't catch me like that again if we fought a hundred times, and it is with a feeling like that in my heart that I am starting to prepare for this coming fight."

NEVADA, 28; SANTA CLARA, 0

Ragged Game of Rugby Played at Reno.

Reno, Nev., Nov. 14.—Nevada took Santa Clara into camp today to the tune of 28 to 0. It was a ragged game for the first few minutes, but after that both teams picked up and played good Rugby. The attitude visibly affected the California aggregation, which accounts in a good measure for the one-sided score. On the other hand, Nevada has improved wonderfully in the

What One Patient Says:

"I cannot find words to express the elation I feel over the improvement in my condition, and I am frank to give all credit for it to Dr. Farnsworth."

"For years I suffered untold agonies resultant from the ravages of sciatic rheumatism, which seemed to grow steadily worse under the influence of the numerous medical remedies taken with a hope that some of them would do me some good, but all was in vain. After taking everything I had read or heard about as a possible cure for the affliction of which I was suffering, I finally responded to one of Dr. Farnsworth's newspaper advertisements and decided to go and see him. At once I was taken with the reasonableness of his claims, and commenced to take his treatments as the last resort. It took but a few treatments to prove that all he said was correct, and within a short time I was entirely freed from the awful pains which had become the greater part of my existence, and gradually I entirely regained my old-time strength and vigor. Today I am as well as I ever was in my life, and give Dr. Farnsworth full credit for making a new man of me. I cannot praise him enough for the manner in which he conducted my case, and do not hesitate to recommend him to anyone suffering the same as I did. H. A. PIPER."

GOTCH HAS NEW RIVALS

Report Is That Two Foreigners Are Able to Best American.

An American athlete who has just returned from Europe tells some interesting things about the wrestling situation there.

"Europe is so full of wrestling giants just now," he says, "that even the great Hackenschmidt is becoming a forgotten back number. Hack has nearly dropped out of sight. He is afraid of his life when anybody mentions Padoubny. Ivan Padoubny stands six feet six inches in his socks, and weighs 290 pounds. He is perfectly built—not fat, and with the greatest pair of shoulders I ever saw. His arms are as thick as an ordinary wrestler's body. I saw him wrestle and nobody has a chance with him."

"Gotch will get a shock when he bumps into that bunch. He's last about a minute with Padoubny. Zbyesco is a joke, but there are dozens of real giants who could beat Gotch. About 280 pounds is the fashionable weight for wrestlers over there. No wonder Mahmoud, the Turk, skipped over to America to look for work. He was like a kid in that crowd. The Swiss wrestlers all over France and Germany are the class of the lot. There's one big Turk in London now who is about Padoubny's weight. Oh, Frank will feel like a lightweight when he reaches London."

PROVO, 35; SPRINGVILLE, 5.

Utah County Sports Get Touch of Rough Stuff.

(Special to The Herald.)

Provo, Nov. 14.—In the second football game of the season here today, the Provo team defeated Springville by a score of 35 to 5.

The game was rough and fast from start to finish, and in almost every down time was taken out on account of some one being hurt.

The Provo team played good ball. The back field and the ends played an excellent game, and formed some of the finest interference ever seen in the county.

The only touchdown for Springville was made by Wiscomb, who secured the ball on a fumble and ran forty yards for a touchdown.

The line-up:

Lineemen—Erickson, Walsh. Attendance—400.

The Provo boys say they can win the Utah county championship without trying, and would like very much to play two games with American Fork.

STAY BY THE KNOWN AND RELIABLE ALWAYS

Sick people in search of a Doctor too often find themselves confused and in doubt because of the claims of various Doctors and have to dispose of a great many questions.

"IF" I knew who the Doctor was? "IF" I knew why some Doctors do business in the open, using their own names—and why others conceal their identity and hide behind some fake title such as "Company" or "Institute"? "IF" I knew whether the Doctor was honest and skillful—or was some cheap quack hired by the month by some fake Company. "IF" I knew he could make good his alluring promises—"IF" I knew his statements were true or even probable—"IF" I knew some one he has actually CURED—then I might believe in him."

IF YOU FIND THESE QUESTIONS ARISING IN YOUR MIND—if you are confused by the claims and counter-claims of advertising Specialists—DON'T YOU THINK IT TIME TO AVOID THE UNCERTAIN AND DOUBTFUL—AND STICK TO THE KNOWN AND RELIABLE?

THESE ARE FACTS! YOU CAN'T BE WRONG HERE
